BPM PARTNERS LAUNCHES TARGETED BUSINESS PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT SOLUTIONS

— Best Practice Service Packages Enable Companies to Focus on Their Key Performance Management Business Issues —

Stamford, CT—February 6, 2008—BPM Partners, the leading independent authority on business performance management (BPM), today announced the availability of its Best Practice Service Packs, a short-term engagement that provides a collection of tools, methodologies and expert advice developed through more than 20 years of industry leading excellence. These targeted service packs will enable companies of all sizes to successfully address their particular performance management requirements at a fraction of typical consulting costs.

Performance management has become a de facto requirement for companies of all sizes. At the same time, many companies lack the resources or time required to engage in traditional consulting models. The Best Practice Service Packs are designed to help these companies attack discrete performance management issues by tailoring the engagement to meet their specific needs. This cost-effective expertise is designed to fill the gap between companies challenged to “go it alone” and those entering into a full-service engagement. The services are intended to supplement an organization’s existing performance management and business intelligence expertise.

The service packs are available for each major area of performance management including:

- Budgeting and planning,
- Consolidation and financial reporting,
- Dashboards and key performance indicators,
- BPM 2.0 (operational analytics, profitability analysis, governance, risk and compliance) and
- Customized performance analysis with business intelligence tools.

Each service pack is deployed as a self-contained module, specific to where a user may be in the deployment lifecycle: research and education, roadmap and vision, requirements validation, vendor validation and deployment planning. At the end of the engagement, companies will own specific value-add deliverables, actionable working documents that provide guidance for future steps, and a roadmap for moving forward with a successful BPM initiative.

“While almost every company would acknowledge that performance management has moved from an option to a requirement, not every company has the resources available to enter into a standard consulting engagement,” said Craig Schiff, CEO of BPM Partners. “The Best Practice Packs are designed to provide focused and cost-effective expertise to ensure the success of the efforts that these companies have made or plan to make on their own. Developed through decades of experience maximizing investments in performance management tools, the Best Practice Service Packs are available for companies that need help at any stage of the performance management lifecycle, including optimizing existing systems.”

BPM Partners Best Practice Packs for Performance Management are available immediately with most packages starting at $5,000. For more details, please visit www.bpmpartners.com or call (203) 359-5677.
